LOBMEYR "GRIP"

DESIGNER

Marco Dessi, 2009

MANUFACTURER

Lobmeyr

DESCRIPTION

The set, comprising of a tumbler and a decanter, was designed by Marco Dessi, an Italian designer living in Vienna. The decanter is inspired by Italian design classics. It can be used for wine and water alike, while the tumbler works perfectly well for beer or Scotch, especially in the cut version.

Dessi demonstrates how a rather austere design can come to life when executed by skilled craftsmen. A specially developed lamella cut playfully hints at technical aesthetics and functionality. An ornament at the base prevents from visible scratches. Equally important is the haptic pleasure when drinking from the glass — literally the "grip".
