- Lightest duty, loosest fit of all categories
- Economical solution for preventing bare hand contact with ready-to-eat foods
- Most inexpensive of the four categories
- Perfect for tasks that require constant glove changing such as food prep

VINYL GLOVES

- More form fitting than PE gloves and looser fit than nitrile and latex
- More expensive than PE but less expensive than nitrile and latex gloves
- Vinyl gloves are often used in institutional or industrial environments and are excellent for food service, food processing, assembly, maintenance, inspection and scientific research

LATEX GLOVES

- Tighter fit/heavier grade than PE and Vinyl
- Some customers avoid purchasing because they have customers or employees with a latex allergy
- Some places it is illegal to use a latex glove in a processing or food handling environment - the alternate glove to offer in this instance is a nitrile which was created because of this exact reason
- Skin tight feel provides excellent protection from liquids, keeping hands safe/clean.
- More expensive than Nitrile and Vinyl
- Textured fingertips allow for superior gripping and everyday use

NITRILE GLOVES

- Skin tight feel comparable to Latex. Textured fingertips allow for superior gripping and everyday use

- Latex free, provides an excellent alternative to latex in terms of strength and dexterity

- Can be used across the board in all industries/sectors except in clean rooms

- About the same price point as Latex, because it is used and a latex substitute.

- Available in powdered and powder free

 - Many food companies CANNOT use powdered gloves

 - Powder is cornstarch used for easy removal from mold, application to hand

- Powder-free are more expensive because they undergo a wash to remove manufacturing cornstarch

- Most common color purchased is blue almost across the board
